

Local Refrigeration Service Company Pays it Forward with Food

Farmingdale, New York – Alongside chefs that work with their products daily, AmeriCold showed their support for community at the iQué rico! Celebrating Latino Cuisine & Culture: The 31st Annual Chefs' Tribute to CityMeals on Wheels on June 6th.

AmeriCold, who frequently work with New York City chefs and restaurateurs to install, maintain and repair their refrigeration systems, wanted to show their support for the City Meals on Wheels program which, "provides a continuous lifeline of nutritious food and human company to homebound elderly New Yorkers in need, helping them to live with dignity in their own familiar homes and communities."

The event, which raised over $900,000 for the City Meals on Wheels program, took place at Rockefeller center. Bob Levine and Kevin Sampson of AmeriCold both attended the event, and have worked closely with event chairman Dennis Riese of the Riese Foundation. AmeriCold donated to the worthwhile cause, one that CEO Bob Levine said, "is so important. Providing meals to the homebound and taking care of our community is such an important cause. Working with refrigeration, we know how important food is to every person, and it's important that we give back where we can."
